There are Bridges we can cross

The picture of a bridge can help us to see and to connect the diversity which is conjunct under the concept of Orff-Schulwerk: Bridges between the beginning of Orff-Schulwerk and its present-day appearance, between different activities, between improvisation and composition, between playing and learning. And even the shape and appearance of a bridge may inspire us to create our own dance and music.

Music Games from Latin America

This workshop is designed for teachers, parents and anybody who believes in the educational value of music games. Beginning from the great richness of Latin traditional folklore, we will re-create it in imaginative ways. Each song creates an engaging scenario for different group activities, filled with educational concepts that are easily assimilated by children. These activities include traditional educational instruments but also body percussion, spoons, buckets, hula hoops, ping pong balls, PET bottles and many other alternative ways to make music.

Andrea Ostertag

Dance from Scratch

Following one of the Orff Schulwerk principles: from simple to complex, we will start with simple movement ideas. Through dance improvisation, exercises for awareness, movement games and basic dance technique we will develop, experience and discuss dance forms of various complexity.

Reinhold Wirsching

The Joy of Singing

Games, exercises and activities develop vocal skills such as breath control, articulation and intonation. Practical sequences for vocal work and body awareness will be applicable to students of various ages. Speech pieces, canons and part-songs from different cultures stimulate vocal expression and improvisation.

Afternoon Sessions: 14:30 – 16:00 / 16:30 – 18:00

Ari Glage

Circle Songs and More

Circle Singing is an adventure. Out of the moment we will develop spontaneous improvisational community singing. Wordless vocal patterns lie over each other and create musical landscapes free of preconceptions. Different approaches encourage us to find our own personal expression.

Rhythmical Games around the World!

In Africa, Asia, Europe, America and Australia, rhythmic games can be found everywhere in the world. These games consist of rhythm which is the main, supportive and provocative element. In the practice of creating rhythm through games, singing and producing music, a community is found amongst the young and old, the novice and the seasoned rhythm players. This workshop offers a treasure of movement and rhythm games from different cultures around the world. It is based on the multi media book: Rhythmusspiele der Welt, by Rolf Grillo

Connect through Dance

Everybody can dance. Music and dance connect us directly and vividly with ourselves and each other. In each session we will move and dance, improvise, explore different scores and get tools to create choreographies with diverse groups. We will reflect on the gradation of difficulties for different abilities in the class. The classes will provide basic principles and methods to support an inclusive environment so everybody is able to join in the dance.

And Orff we go...Fun with Instruments!

This workshop will focus on the use of the classic Orff-Instruments in different approaches. Based on playing forms and improvisation we will create musical arrangements with xylophones, small percussion and other instruments according to children's songs as well as pop tunes. Starting with body-percussion patterns or tongue-twisters we will explore many of the hidden possibilities of the Orff-Instruments – from very basic to pretty groovy. Also your own instruments such as violin, flute, ukulele or others will be welcome at the workshop!

Composing Scores to Sound and Movement in Collective Practice

In this workshop we shall explore collective sound and movement creations as well as investigate strategies for their collective creation. The workshops will consist of improvisational (musical and movement) as well as musical scoring components. The workshops are intended to facilitate and align music making with other disciplines as well as introduce musical skills that are transferrable in multi-disciplined collaborative work contexts.

Evening Sessions (optional): 19:30 – 20:30

Afternoon Workshops

The programme of the workshops lasts the whole week, i.e. five afternoons, 90 mins each. Each participant chooses two workshops.

Because of limited numbers in some groups, during online registration you will be asked to mark a third choice in case your second choice is full.

All classes will be taught in English.

Please bring suitable clothing and shoes for movement sessions.

No video or audio recording is allowed.

Participants will receive a certificate confirming attendance and the amount of the paid fee at the end of the course. Each participant is responsible for his/her medical and accident insurance.
